NO. 118—NINETY-FOURTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1952 — 7 CENTS DAILY 10 CENTS SUNDAY — 22 PAGES

City Will Close One Fire Hall; 14 Out of Work

Recent Wage Increase Given As Reason for Council Move

Victoria's Yates Street fire hall will be closed by the end of May and 14 firemen laid off, city council agreed yesterday.

The move, initiated by fire wardens chairman Ald. Waldo Skillings, will save the city an estimated $30,000 off the 1952 record provisional fire department budget of $493,704.

Council, sitting as a committee-of-the-whole, passed the motion unanimously in the morning, then defeated a motion to rescind it, made by Ald. Brent Murdoch in the afternoon.

"A man can change his mind can't he?" said Ald. Murdoch when asked to explain his change of heart.

Making the Yates Street hall inactive would save about $30,000 this year as five months will have passed by the end of next month. The cut would save about $55,000, or a little more than one mill, over a full year.

OUT OF LINE

Ald. Skillings said the recent 17-per-cent wage increase awarded by a conciliation board was "so out of line that we feel reduction of the firemen is necessary to cut the budget."

"Necessity is the governing factor here," he said. "We don't think for one minute that there is any surplus of firemen now."

Meanwhile, strong opposition to the move is expected from members of the Firemen's Union, some of whom were present during the council meeting.

Union officials indicated they might take action against the decision after they called an early meeting.

Chief F. W. Briers wasted no time voicing his objection. While council was still in session yesterday afternoon he brought in a letter in which he declared the resolution unwarranted.

He asked council to reconsider and said that "in the interest of public safety" he was opposed to closing any station or reducing staff.

Ald. Skillings argued that with modern equipment, including a new $21,500 pumper later approved by council, three stations could quite adequately cover the city.

Also at the suggestion of Ald. Skillings, City Manager Cecil Wyatt has been asked to study the possibility of using civilian telephone and alarm operators in the firehalls.

"We do not need uniformed firemen being paid high union wages on that job at all," he said.

Council Decision "False Economy"

Neither the fire chief nor any other competent authority has been interviewed to see if the fire department could operate efficiently with a reduction in staff and the closing of one fire hall, David M. Pye, president of Local 730 of the International Association of Firefighters, said yesterday after a mass meeting of Victoria firemen.

The firemen met for nearly an hour and a half to discuss the union's stand on the announcement that the Yates Street fire hall with a staff of 14 men would be eliminated by May 31.

Fire Chief Frank Briers said in support of his men after the meeting that "it was an unwise move and I don't think it's in the interest of the citizens of Victoria."

"This move has been organized against my better judgment," Chief Briers declared.

FALSE ECONOMY

Members of the union said that the reduction in staff would only mean a "false economy" to Victoria and an increase in fire insurance would be the result.

"All they are doing is robbing Peter to pay Paul," president David Pye said.

He added that the fire underwriters had recently recommended that 20 additional men be hired to increase the staff of the fire department to bring it up to the standard set across Canada.

Local fire wardens, under chairmanship of Ald. Waldo Skillings, recommended that four extra men be hired about two weeks ago, according to Mr. Pye.

"Today these same wardens have recommended a cut in the staff and the closing of the Yates Street hall," he added.

Army Lifts Quarantine

Army medical authorities clamped a strict precautionary quarantine on Gordon Head camp yesterday morning and lifted it again last night after laboratory tests dispelled fears that a food handler at the camp might have been a typhoid carrier.

The camp, with an establishment of about 500 soldiers, was placed in quarantine at 8.15 a.m. yesterday after the food handler was picked up by a routine test taken by camp medical officers.

They announced that the kitchen worker was a "suspected carrier of typhoid" and that the camp would be quarantined as a precautionary measure. Laboratory tests at Royal Jubilee Hospital showed that he was not.

Liberals Pick Candidates

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—J. G. Gould and J. Howard Forester tonight were chosen Liberal candidates for Vancouver-Burrard in the June 12 provincial election.

Mr. Gould was Coalition M.L.A. in the last legislature and Mr. Forester was M.L.A. for Burrard from 1937 to 1941.

Painters Seek Strike Vote

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP)—Painters in Vancouver will join the carpenters in seeking a strike vote to back up their demands for wage increases in 1952 labor contracts.

Officials of the Painters' Union, Local 138 (A.F.L.) said today they will apply for a government-supervised strike vote for 900 painters here.

The decision followed rejection by employers of a conciliation board majority report recommending a 30-cent-an-hour pay increase for brush painters. The present rate is $1.70 an hour.

Twenty-five hundred Vancouver carpenters applied Monday for a government-supervised strike vote and are expected to complete balloting within three weeks.

Garriott Now Chief Big Shot

Victoria Tyee Baseball Club manager Cece Garriott is formally installed as Chief Big Shot of Vancouver Island at a pre-game ceremony in Athletic Park last night before he and his team-mates squeezed out a 7-6 win over Wenatchee to consolidate their league lead. Singing a song of welcome in the installation ceremony are Chief Thunderbird (left), Percy Ross, chief of Songhees; Garriott, Mike Underwood, Cowichan tribe, and Abraham Joe, Cowichan tribe. Tyee means big shot in Indian lingo, the chiefs explained.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Police Enter Capetown

CAPETOWN, April 29 (Reuters)—Squads of police in civilian clothes, several carrying rifles wrapped in blankets, have arrived quietly in Capetown during the last three days to reinforce the local police.

Efforts by members of parliament and reporters to get the government or police chief to say why they are here have failed.

The latest contingent arrived by train today—on the eve of another debate in parliament on the government's controversial bill to make parliament the supreme constitutional court of the land. The bill passed its first stage last week despite opposition attempts to kill it.

Besides the first-class row this legislation has raised, there have been rumors that the non-European population is planning a new phase in the passive resistance campaign against racial segregation.

CIVILIAN CLOTHES

All 40 police who entered Capetown today were in civilian clothes. Some had their rifles hidden in blankets and others had them sheathed in rifle covers. A few carried them uncovered. So far a total of 100 reinforcements have arrived in the city.

Police Commissioner Maj-Gen. J. A. Brink told a reporter he is bringing "a certain number of police into Capetown for special duty."

In the House of Assembly, Jacobus Strauss, opposition leader, warned the government there is a great deal of suppressed anxiety in the country provoked by the government's recent actions.

Red Planes Hit French Airliner

BERLIN, April 29 (AP).—Two Russian jet fighters blasted at an Air France airliner on its way to Berlin today, wounding four of the 17 persons aboard with a hail of cannon and machine-gun fire.

The incident resulted in an exchange of charges by the Western Allies and the Russians.

British, French and American high commissioners promptly sent a note of protest against the "unwarranted attack" and demanded an immediate investigation and compensation. They said the plane was flying in the corridor prescribed by four-power agreement.

The Russians ignored the protest and sent a counter-protest of their own, charging the plane was not flying in the corridor permitted by them over the Soviet zone of Germany.

SIGNAL TO LAND

The Russians said that the jets signalled the airliner to land, and when it ignored this order one of the fighters fired across the passenger plane's bow.

Two German passengers were injured, one seriously, and two French crew members were nicked slightly in the attack. The cabin and fuselage of the Air France commercial liner, a four-engined Douglas, were so punctured by shells and bullets it will be grounded several days for repairs.

Six crew members and 11 passengers were aboard.

Air France withheld a list of the passengers but eight were Germans, two Swiss and one Netherlander.

United States air force police questioned the French crew and some of the passengers to support the Allied protest to the Russians.

It was expected these documents will be sent tonight to Gen. Vassily Chuikov, chief of the Soviet control commission.

Two MIG-15's made the attack at 10.34 a.m. (2.34 a.m. P.D.T.) as the liner cruised high above the Elbe river valley of the Russian zone on a regular flight from Frankfurt to Berlin. Pilot Gilbert Schwallinger of Paris reported he was flying in the middle of the corridor and at the prescribed 7,000 feet when the fighters roared up from the Koethen airfield near Dessau.

There are 25 commercial flights linking Berlin with the west daily. They are charted in three corridors over the 100 miles of Russian zone and the Soviet air force is supplied with the schedules.

Logging Halted By Strike

PORTLAND, Ore., April 29 (AP).—Logging virtually ceased today in much of the fir and pine area of Northern California, Oregon and Washington.

Numerous mills closed, too, as about 40,000 C.I.O. woodworkers went on strike for a 7½-cent an hour pay increase, night pay differential, an employer-financed health and welfare fund and three more paid holidays.

More than 3,000 woodworkers in Western Montana, Northern Idaho and Eastern Washington stayed on the job. They are still conducting negotiations with the Timber Products Manufacturers' Association.

Fir and pine operations manned by C.I.O. workers elsewhere in the northwest closed. Since many of these men are loggers, this was expected to lead eventually to a log shortage for mills still operating.

Ottawa Plans to Raise War Veterans' Allowance

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—The federal government proposed today to boost war veterans' allowance by 25 per cent or more and to drive a big loophole through the rule that puts a ceiling on outside income for recipients.

Veterans Minister Hugues Lapointe, after rejecting the perennial opposition bid for a permanent Commons committee on veterans' affairs, introduced a bill to amend the Veterans' Allowances Act to boost to $50 a month from $40 the maximum allowance payable to a single veteran or widow—to $90 from $70 the maximum for a married recipient; establish a new basis for outside income under which a recipient can earn as much as possible on a monthly basis without hurting his allowance; but actually reduce the ceilings on outside income for those to whom officials decide they still apply. Under the existing setup, a single recipient can earn an extra $125 a year, a married recipient $250, before his allowance is cut. The new amounts would be $120 for both.

The allowances are paid to aged and needy overseas veterans and widows and orphans of veterans. A total of 40,000 Canadians receive them.

The minister earlier hinted at possible future changes in the Veterans' Land Act when he said he has officials "looking into the whole question" of V.L.A., the statute under which veterans are settled on farms and small holdings.

Earlier, too, the House listened to a parade of Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit members making a two-point assault on Mr. Lapointe's proposal to set up a special committee—it finally was set up—to study whatever legislation the government wishes to place before it.

Package Deal Last Offer

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—The United Nations package deal on remaining Korean truce issues is "about the last offer we can make" Allied diplomats said today.

Whether it will lead to an armistice or a breakdown depends on the Communist response and on decisions which officials are convinced may be made as much in Moscow as in Peiping.

Platform Ready

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—A proposed election platform is ready for the acceptance or rejection tomorrow of 250 Progressive Conservative representatives here.

Eleven former M.L.A.'s and cabinet ministers of the recent Coalition government, 23 party executive members and 24 candidates completed the suggested manifesto tonight after a 10-hour session behind closed doors.

Delegates after the meeting were close mouthed, and gave no hint of what the manifesto contains.

The meeting is actually the regular quarterly meeting of the executive council. A special resolution will have to be passed at the 9.30 a.m. opening to allow the rest of the delegates in.

After the luncheon adjournment the meeting will be thrown wide open for debate on the platform. It will be dealt with point-by-point.

Seizure of Steel Voided by Judge

Strike Begins Immediately As Ruling Vetoes President

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—A federal judge today voided President Truman's seizure of the strike-threatened steel industry and the vanguard of 650,000 C.I.O. steelworkers at once began going out on strike.

U.S. District Judge David A. Pine ruled that Truman's seizure was "without authority in law" of the constitution.

He struck at arguments that the President has broad "inherent" powers authorizing the seizure, saying that for the courts to agree to such an argument "would undermine public confidence in the very edifice of government as it is known under the constitution."

The judge announced that he was issuing an injunction ordering the government to give the mills back to their owners.

The government was ready to ask for a higher court order cancelling out the District Court decision, but the 650,000 United Steelworkers did not wait—the strike the government seized the mills to head off, started. Union president Philip Murray said his 650,000 members had "no alternative but to quit work immediately," and within one hour pickets were out and furnaces were being shut down.

WORKERS POUR OUT

At Pittsburgh, workers poured out of United States Steel mills by the thousands tonight in swift obedience to cease-work orders from Murray.

One union official said the plant shutdown is orderly and that stand-by crews are remaining behind to safeguard expensive equipment—like iron-making blast furnaces which must be cooled slowly.

Some fervent unionists laid down their tools minutes after Murray was reported as saying the union had no alternative to working without a contract except stopping work.

But most waited for the official orders to come through union district headquarters.

Three hours after Murray issued his cease-work order, the shutdown of the steel industry was well under way for the second time this month.

The industry virtually was shut down by the night of April 8 to meet a strike deadline of 12.01 a.m.—when Truman disclosed the government was taking over the steel industry. That action averted a strike and the men went back to work.

John Murray, director of District 16 of the union, who issued orders today to shut down two big Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation plants and 15 other steel plants in the Pittsburgh area, said the union will not give the company the usual cooling off period.

The United States government tonight clamped an embargo on shipments of steel from warehouses to producers of civilian-type goods and to foreign countries.

The National Production Authority moved to conserve available steel supplies less than two hours after a court decision nullified government seizure of the steel plants and steel workers started going on strike.

FREEZE OF SUPPLIES

N.P.A. said the freeze of supplies will give the agency time to determine whether any steel on hand in warehouses should be diverted from civilian consumption to military use.

One almost certain result of the court ruling is a historic test in higher tribunals of just how much "inherent" power the President has in a period of national emergency. And the findings could — though they probably will not—bring an ultimate decision on whether the judiciary can control the executive.

Judge Pine denounced the whole theory of inherent powers.

He avoided the issue of court control over the executive, however, by holding that the President was not a party to the immediate action in the court and did not have to be one. He did hold that administrative officers in this case Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer as government boss of the seized plants—are subject to court order.

Technically, Judge Pine's action was the issuance of a preliminary injunction against carrying out the seizure, directed against Sawyer.

The formal order was left to later preparation with the assistance of steel company lawyers, who called the judge's decision a "complete vindication" of their position.

Oil Strike Starts

DENVER, April 30 (Wednesday) (AP).—Eastern United States refineries went out on strike at 1.01 a.m. E.D.T., today as a country-wide strike of union oil workers was launched, according to a spokesman at the Oil Workers' International (C.I.O.) here.

The spokesman said he could not disclose which plants were on strike, their number or location.

Hopes for settlement of the strike of some 90,000 union refinery and pipeline oil industry workers held little promise.

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and the Independent Central States Petroleum Union failed to agree on contract terms. The trend was the same over the country.

However, reports of a near settlement for the 25,000 C.I.O. oil workers in California eased the picture somewhat. Such a settlement could set a pattern.

TO HELP WAR

O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers' International Union in Denver, earlier had said California had said California members had been requested to remain on the job so as not to hamper the Korean war effort. Union officials in San Francisco said they had not received the request.

Knight said he expects half the country's production of refined oil products to be cut off.

In Washington, the government reported it had no immediate plans for intervening.

The unions are seeking a 25-cent hourly wage increase and increased night differential pay, plus other benefits.

The average wage ranges from $2 to $2.10 hourly.

Lone Wolf Suspect Case Helped by Tip to Police

A tip from a Fairfield resident Monday night led police to a 32-year-old man who police believe may be responsible for a wave of house prowling that has plagued the city department during the past year.

Name of the man is being withheld by police until he appears in court today before Magistrate H. C. Hall. It has been learned that he lives in Saanich and is married. According to police records the man used to live on the Prairies.

Police said they received a phone call Monday night from a Fairfield Road householder who complained of a man acting in a suspicious manner.

Const. Harry Hoshal was dispatched in a prowl car to investigate the complain and returned with a suspect.

Police questioned the man who was later released. After subsequent investigation they arrested the man early yesterday afternoon. He was charged with being in possession of stolen goods.

Although police refuse to discuss details of the case it has been learned that they believe the stolen property concerned consists of mechanics' tools taken from a basement suite last February.

When the mechanics' tools, valued at about $150, were stolen, a young woman who lived in the basement suite of the home was brutally struck on the head with a furnace shaker. She was treated for a lacerated scalp.

The man police suspect is described as a "lone wolf" who has been detained for police questioning on other occasions.

Although police refuse to discuss further investigations that are being carried out it has been learned that offenses dating back more than 18 months are being investigated.

Taking part in the investigations are Detectives Norman Bath, Angus Munro, Alex Briggs and Louis Callan.

Tax Question Due in Court

A straight question of admissibility of income tax returns in court cases, will come before B.C. Appeal Court here May 6.

Court began hearings on the case, but adjourned it to allow separation of connection with a recent bookmaking conspiracy trial in Vancouver, during which income tax returns were admitted.

Walter S. Owen, Q.C., and W. R. Mead represent the federal department of national revenue, which appealed the decision of Mr. Justice J. Whitaker in Supreme Court to allow the tax returns.

Eisenhower Takes Lead

BOSTON, April 29 (AP)—General Eisenhower piled up more than a two-to-one lead tonight in the all-write-in Massachusetts presidential preference primary contest with Senator Robert Taft of Ohio.

Continuing tabulations, while inconclusive, indicated that Eisenhower delegates were winnnig the favor of voters in most of the district contests with Taft-pledged candidates.

Lost With 50 Aboard

Canadian on Missing Plane

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 29 (AP).—A double-decked luxury Stratocruiser with 50 persons aboard vanished today while flying over the jungles of Northern Brazil on the way from Buenos Aires to New York. Pan-American World Airways, operators of the $1,250,000 plane, said it was presumed down in the wilderness.

The sister of a Canadian government official and the president of the Willys-Overland Export Corp. of Canada Ltd., are among the 41 passengers listed.

Pan-American World Airways in New York gave a passenger list which included these names:

Mrs. Lucy Geils Wood, 47, formerly of Montreal, sister of Edmond Joly de Lotbiniere of the Canadian external affairs department.

John Vincent Wood, 47, a British engineer who boarded the plane at Buenos Aires bound for New York.

(The Woods were on their way to Canada to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Wood was born and educated in Montreal and married in London, England.)

Marcel Francois DeMuelier, 50, Toledo, O., president and general manager of the Willys-Overland Export Corp., and president of Willys-Overland Export Corp. of Canada, Ltd.

Dagmar Seelig, 24, a German citizen residing in Montreal, who embarked at Buenos Aires for New York.

The luxury liner was on a non-stop schedule for the 2,600 miles from Rio de Janeiro to Trinidad, when its last radio call was heard by a station at Barreiras, Bahia State. No trouble was reported.

The plane was due in Trinidad at 10 a.m., E.D.T.

Pan-American officials said the plane had only enough gasoline to keep it aloft until 2 p.m., E.D.T. It carried 41 passengers and nine crew members. Among those reported aboard were Jorge Godoy, Brazilian attorney-general and his wife.

Pan-American officials said aircraft from the U.S. navy and air force, the Brazilian air force and civilian airlines were scouring the entire 1,900-mile route between Barreiras and Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

F. S. Greenwood of Cedarwood Bungalow Court, Bazan Bay, claims he has a furry barometer in the house.

Batchie, a big grey 12-year-old Persian, foretells [illegible] Mr. Greenwood says.

When there's fine weather ahead, Batchie curls up in the normal cat-fashion. But an impending storm tweaks his old joints and straightens him out. He lies in a straight line with his face flat on the floor.

He may lie like that for half a day. Twelve hours after he takes up his storm-warning position, clouds gather and high winds whistle around the eaves.

Old Batchie has shown this remarkable talent for the last two years—ever since the severe winter of 1949-50. Before that time he was an outdoor cat and a fine ratter. But the cold drove him indoors, where he has remained ever since, except for brief excursions outside.

One reason for his home-keeping habits is "Pixie," the big yard cat, who has tried to kill him several times and has torn four neighborhood cats to pieces.

Some visitors to the Greenwood home claim that weather-forecaster Batchie always points his head in the direction from which the wind will blow, but Mr. Greenwood says he has no proof of this.

Maybe this is late now, but early for next year: Someone neglected to fire a salute for Alec Merriman of Island Events magazine April 21. It was his birthday—the same as the Queen's . . . Away to Santa Barbara, California, June 9 is Fred Usher of Victoria's Hometowners. He represents Vancouver Island at the convention of the American Federation of Musicians for Canada, the U.S.A. and Hawaii. For an exponent of western and novelty music, Fred got his start in an odd way—in church choirs and amateur operettas in his home town, Regina. Before the present gang gathered together, Fred and a couple of partners used to do imitations of the Mills Brothers. They were probably among the first performers in Canada to appear on television—a British short-range demonstration in Regina in 1932. Everybody looked ghastly green, but it worked . . . Made a bad mistake the other day in mentioning an ex-Victorian who is building a resort at Oyster River. His name is Floyd Olson, not Hanson . . . Do you notice that the car sometimes gives you an electric shock these days? It's static electricity, probably caused by rubbing of hands on steering wheel, clothes on seat. I notice it when I open the door—just a quick, light twinge. Bus drivers get it too. Some people are more liable to it than others, and it seems to be most frequent in summer.

Vivienne Chadwick Gets Vancouver Role

Vivienne Chadwick, well-known Victoria player-director, will play the role of Monica in a professional production of Noel Coward's "Present Laughter," at Vancouver's Totem Theatre.

It is the same role in which she was outstanding in a Victoria Little Theatre production of the comedy last September. She was also highly praised for her direction of the play, which played to sellout houses here.

In true tradition of the theatre's excitement, Mrs. Chadwick made hairbreath plane connections to Vancouver in less than two hours after she heard by phone she had been chosen for the role and must be in Vancouver immediately to start rehearsal.

The Totem Theatre production is being produced and directed by Ian Dobbie, who recently was adjudicator of the South Vancouver Island Community Drama festival.

"Present Laughter" is expected to have at least a three-week run in Vancouver, that may be extended if attendance warrants. It may open next Monday if the present play on the boards closes this week end.

Mrs. Charwick, head of production for the Victoria Theatre Guild, was chosen for the Monica role after she met the Vancouver producer while he was here for the amateur drama festival.

Trollers to Remain Tied Up Until Fish Prices Are Settled

Twenty-three beam trollers have tied up at Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Port Edwards until prices on fish have been settled with plant operators.

The strike came about as a result of price drops and threats of further cuts to those operating on the vessels. Each carries four or five men, said Homer Stevens, secretary of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (T.L.C.).

Crews are members of the union, and skippers mostly are members of the Vessel Owners' Association.

Mr. Stevens said the fishermen want the following prices: 3½ cents a pound to remain for grey cod, 4½ to 6½ cents a pound for soles, a ½-cent-a-pound increase; and 6 cents a pound for ling cod, a one-cent increase.

A change is also sought in the amount of deduction for loss due to ice and slime. The request would cut the present 5 per cent deduction on weight to 2½ per cent.

Boats have been operating for the past weeks out of Prince Rupert and Port Edwards and tied up last night when no satisfaction could be reached on prices with operators, Mr. Stevens said.

Carl Palmgren, U.F.A.W.U.'s Victoria secretary, said three boats, operated by local fishermen are now tied up here, with another troller from Vancouver.

He said he expects three other Victoria boats will come in from the fishing grounds and tie up before the week end.

Lecture Draws Interest

Husbands and wives, mothers, nursery and play group officials and some personnel officers for local companies were among the audience of 80 which attended the opening lecture on child psychology last night at Victoria College.

Last night's lecture by Prof. W. H. Gaddes, professor of psychology at the college, dealt with the first year of baby life. Later lectures will deal with a child's life up to six years of age.

Most of the evidence now is that a child shouldn't be frustrated from thumb-sucking up until the third year, Professor Gaddes noted. He also explained possible damage that could result.

Feeding of a child during the first year was discussed, with many questions coming from the audience which included 18 men.

The lecture, originally scheduled to conclude at 9.30 p.m., continued another 30 minutes due to audience interest.

Registrations at reduced rates will be accepted at the next session May 6 for the remaining four lectures.

Railway Unions Plan to Fight Hospital Plan

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP)—Railway unions representing 10,000 C.P.R. employees are preparing to fight any attempt to incorporate the C.P.R. hospital scheme into the B.C. hospital insurance scheme.

Jack O'Brien, official of the Vancouver committee of the railway unions, said the groups would have members "attending political rallies to ask all candidates their stand on this question."

Mr. O'Brien said the C.P.R. plan gives employees more benefits for less money than the B.C.H.I.S.

"For $6 a month, married persons with dependents get complete hospital, medical, doctor surgical benefits—everything.

"Single persons get the same for $3 and pensioners get it all for $2 a month," he said.

Foot and Mouth Outbreak Termed Worst So Far

OTTAWA, April 29 (AP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner today described as the worst yet a new outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in South Saskatchewan.

The new attack, involving 123 cattle, assumed an ominous tone when it was learned that 24 head of cattle from the infected herd, near Weyburn, 75 miles southeast of Regina, had been sent to a community pasture. If they show symptoms of the disease, [illegible] In contact also may be destroyed.

In Vancouver, Harry Bowman, B.C.'s agriculture minister, said the province will take action if the disease "appears to get out of control." He did not amplify, but it appeared likely B.C. would reimpose an embargo against Alberta cattle and meats.

Meanwhile, the Commons prepared to probe the government's handling of the outbreak.

MEETING TODAY

At the request of Mr. Gardiner, the Commons agreed to convene its agricultural committee Wednesday and begin questioning agriculture officials.

At the same time Mr. Gardiner produced a file of official correspondence among departmental officials, heading off the threat of another opposition outburst against his apparent reluctance to make the documents public.

John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) Monday threatened to bring Mr. Gardiner before the bar of the Commons if he did not table documents requested in an order passed by the chamber March 12.

He asked for immediate convening of the committee so officials would not be kept before the committee longer than necessary.

"Yesterday the worst epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease we have yet had broke out. We cannot have officials who should be out fighting this disease down here before a committee any longer than is necessary," he said.

Among other items, the documents tabled contained letters and telegrams showing:

First report of a vesicular disease similar to foot-and-mouth disease was made December 28, 1951, by Dr. N. D. Christie, district veterinarian at Regina. The outbreak was in the Burns and Company feed lot at Regina.

Dr. Thomas Childs, federal veterinary director-general, February 25 countermanded instructions by other departmental officials [illegible] Regina to stop collecting animal specimens for shipment to Hull, Que., laboratories for testing. Returning from leave, he ordered that diagnosis be made on the spot.

The documents dealt with the various arrangements to investigate the unknown disease, climaxed with a telegram by Dr. Childs, February 19, while in Regina, to Dr. Orlan Hall, his assistant in Ottawa, dealing with livestock movement.

"Movement to the United States and Eastern Canada should be prohibited," it said. "Move quickly."

MADE PUBLIC

Presence of foot-and-mouth disease was made public six days later.

Last week's outbreak at Ormiston, about 100 miles southwest of Regina, and Monday's near Weyburn has caused a widening of the quarantine around Regina.

The original quarantine, extending to 11 municipalities, has been widened to include another three in the Ormiston area. Another six likely will be included in the Weyburn area.

The buffer zone, erected to keep the disease from spreading, will be widened, roughly on a basis of 50 miles from any quarantine point.

Federal veterinarians are pushing an investigation to determine how the foot-and-mouth virus spread to the Weyburn district, at least 50 miles from any other outbreak and 28 miles outside the quarantine zone. So far there have been no leads.

Roosevelt, Willkie Talked of Joining

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie wanted to form a new political party uniting "liberal elements" in Democratic and Republican ranks but death intervened and prevented them from doing anything about it.

This sidelight on the New Deal era, with supporting letters, is contained in an article in the Ladies' Home Journal by Samuel I. Rosenman, a Roosevelt adviser and speech-writer.

Rosenman said he believes the new party crystallized in Roosevelt's mind after his failure to reorganize the supreme court in 1937.

He disclosed also a message by Roosevelt to the 1940 Democratic national convention, which never was sent, declining the third-term nomination already made unless Henry Wallace was nominated vice-president. The convention took Wallace after a bitter fight and Roosevelt went through with his acceptance speech.

In the election that year Roosevelt defeated Willkie, a long-time Democrat whom the Republicans had nominated for president.

Rosenman recounts that four years later Roosevelt, having heard that Wilkie had broached the idea of a new party to the late Gifford Pinchot, suggested a conference with Willkie in the summer of 1944 to talk over the plan.

Willkie, through Rosenman, and in a letter he never mailed but which the author reproduces, suggested the talk be postponed until after the election lest it appear he was trading. Willkie at the time was under pressure to support Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who later won the Republican presidential nomination.

"The project was never even discussed between them directly," Rosenman said.

"By election day, Willkie was dead. Five months after the election Roosevelt was dead."

Reporters Meet In News Blackout

EDINBURGH (CP).—The National Union of Journalists, representing some 12,000 United Kingdom newspapermen, concluded a three-day annual conference here without a line being published in the Edinburgh press about its deliberations.

The boycott was imposed by local publishers when union officials refused to admit any but N.U.J. reporters. One Edinburgh paper employs only members of the rival Institute of Journalists.

Labor Gains Predicted

LONDON, April 29 (Reuters).—Conservative and Labor vote-getters are out in force this week whipping up supporters for the second round of the local election battle throughout the country next week.

The Labor Party, bolstered by huge successes in the first-round election of county councils, expects to make more gains in next week's municipal polling. The Conservatives are on the defensive, saying they hold so many seats already they can't expect to make gains.

The elections, May 5 to May 13, will involve a turnover of 20,000 seats on borough, district, rural and parish councils.

At present the anti-socialists—labeled Conservatives, independents, ratepayers' association candidates, and others—outnumber the socialists by between three and four to one.

The Conservatives know their position is exposed. They claim this is due to socialist electioneering exploiting the country's dissatisfaction with Prime Minister Churchill's six-month-old government.

Labor gained 409 seats in the county elections and now holds 12 of the 62 councils against a former eight.

Packers Told to Buy Beef at Floor Price

CALGARY, April 29 (CP).—"The floor price (for beef cattle) must stick and is going to stick. That is the law," said Robert McCubbin, federal minister for Middlesex West and parliamentary assistant to the federal minister of agriculture, after wrangling all Monday with packing plant officials over the deadlock on bidding in Calgary livestock market.

More than 1,100 head of cattle awaited beginning of trading operations while packing company representatives argued over the government floor price.

Packing plant officials took the view that they were reluctant to buy until their market was assured. They maintained that it already was becoming difficult to store more surplus beef on their premises.

Mr. McCubbin said that the floor price fixed by the government was going to stick at $22.25 a hundredweight at Calgary, that the packers would simply have to buy at that price and that the government was trying to find alternative markets.

He issued the following statement Monday night: "The government is making every endeavor to find markets for surplus beef and hopes that it might have some success."

Charge Denied

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Dr. James Endicott of Toronto denied he told Chinese newspapermen that Canada might be implicated in germ warfare in northeast China.

April 15, the Moscow radio quoted him as saying some "infected insects" allegedly dropped in China may have been bred in Canada.

Monday, Dr. Endicott said in a telephone interview that he had said no such thing.

He said in a typewritten statement, however, that he believes there is "unquestionable and overwhelming evidence the Americans are spreading anthrax, typhoid and cholera in China.

LOS ANGELES, April 29 (AP).—The board of education is mulling a very grave problem indeed: whether to authorize use of 155,000 report cards on which a word is misspelled.

Although the proofs were passed, the "u" and the "a" in the word "language" were transposed. It would cost $1,389.50 to have the cards reprinted.

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—Two young Englishmen were charged with reckless horseback riding in Brooklyn's Prospect Park.

Police told the magistrate that the two were clocked galloping at 25 miles an hour through the park.

Protested one:

"The beast I was riding was well into his eighth year and if we were doing 20 miles an hour it was a bit of a miracle."

"Case dismissed," rpled the magistrate, "in the interest of international friendship."

Report to Parliament

C.N. Expects to Hold Record Traffic

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—The Canadian National Railways looks for about the same traffic volume in 1952 as its record 1951 figure, President Donald Gordon today told the Commons' special railway committee.

Mr. Gordon was giving evidence as the committee concluded a two-day annual study of the government-owned system's 1951 operations and its budget for the current year. The committee approved the reports of the C.P.R. and the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, Ltd.

The 1951 budget, showing all-time peak operating revenues of $663,000,000 and operating expenses of $613,000,000, forecast an overall deficit of $18,025,000 after interest charges.

Mr. Gordon explained the figures do not take into account either a proposed capital revision plan for the company—which would reduce its deficit—or a higher wage bill from expected employee demands this year.

In a wide-ranging review of C.N.R. activities, the committee heard from Transport Minister Chevrier and Mr. Gordon that:

The Government has as yet made no decision on the issue of assuming control of interprovincial and international highway operations, in line with a recommendation of the Royal Commission on Transportation.

It is expected the C.N.R.'s new branch line between Sherridon and Lynn Lake in Manitoba, 146 miles, will be completed by October, 1953.

The C.N.R. is watching developments in the use of atomic energy, but it is too early to predict its use for railway motive power.

The steamship company expects to sell the old passenger liners Lady Nelson and Lady Rodney at a good price after retiring them this year from the West Indies run.

There will be an appropriation in the C.N.R.'s 1953 budget for additional vessels in the Newfoundland coastal steamships service operated by the railway company.

E. D. Fulton (P.C.—Kamloops) suggested that the C.N.R. might have to build a large new tunnel in B.C.

That, he said, might be the only answer to recurrent washouts on the C.N.R. line skirting the Fraser River.

Mr. Gordon said he did not think there would have to be a new route. The company was [illegible] River line, he said.

Vancouver Mill Razed by Blaze

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—Vancouver's fifth major fire in eight days hit the National Shingle Company mill tonight and destroyed plant in False Creek area, in 15 minutes.

Mill owner G. E. Walker estimated damage at between $45,000 and $50,000, part of it covered by insurance. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Nobody was in the mill when the two-alarm, supper-hour blaze broke out. The last shift had left three quarters of an hour before the first alarm was sounded.

Firefighters attacked the blaze from both land and water, bringing the fireboat Carlisle into action.

The City's Dilemma

ACTION by the city council sitting in committee to suggest trimming the city's tentative budget of nearly $7,000,000 produced little outcry until it was suggested, yesterday, that the cuts fall in certain specific places. The proposal to eliminate Yates Street fire hall and lay off some 14 firemen has crystallized the dilemma in which the city finds itself; through shortened government grants as a result of the lowered census returns on the one hand and the ever-rising cost of materials and labor on the other. There is no need to dramatize an already tense situation. The city is facing a dilemma which is not of its own making. In the end, it is necessity which will likely dictate how it will be solved. No municipal corporation, and Victoria least of all, can budget to spend income it will not have. A tentative budget at $6,961,360 is approximately half a million more than the city found with difficulty last year.

It is another matter to decide where, in the light of all the circumstances, the cuts will fall. Cutting down the community's fire prevention, policing, sanitation and similar items could prove a very costly solution. At the same time who can say that the city must absorb all of the cost increases forced on it by the inflated times, by provincial legislation and through other ways, without [illegible] the mill-rate. While Victoria might take a chance on its budget for one year it clearly could not do so for a term of years, and that precisely is what is implied if every effort to trim is resisted blindly.

To a comparative degree, the same dilemma faces every municipality in British Columbia today. The basic question is what can the taxpayers afford? The ominous warning there is that they cannot afford much further increase in their rates, to please one faction of a community or another. Municipalities are already facing the law of diminishing returns, while unpaid taxes once more are accumulating.

On the specific issue of whether a cut of this depth must fall on one city service probably only the city council can be the final judge. But the problem is much wider than that. Every wage increase, every conciliation board award, has sharpened at least one of the horns of this dilemma. It is with every sympathy that the working out of this problem will be viewed, but in the last analysis necessity will have the final word.

Successor to Eisenhower

SPECULATION as to who would succeed General Eisenhower as supreme commander in Europe when the latter leaves that post to return to the U.S.A. as a potential presidential candidate, is now ended. General Ridgway, the American commander of the United Nations Korean campaign, will take over the western alliance command from his famous countryman, and General Mark Clark, well known to Canadians in Italy during the war, will assume the Korean post.

This is a quite radical shift, since General Ridgway is a stranger to the complicated nuances of which the N.A.T.O. command is compounded and his sphere of activity will be vastly different from that of his Far Eastern experience. It was General Eisenhower's known capacity for harmonizing conflicting national elements that assured the creation of a western military alliance and has been the main factor in its successful organization. That is one reason why General Gruenther, Eisenhower's chief of staff and as such familiar with every aspect of the European command, had been mooted to succeed his chief.

One presumes that these high-level military transfers are weighed to the full, however, and General Ridgway apparently has handled his Korean assignment as efficiently as could be expected of any general working under wraps. On June 1 his will be the distinction of having succeeded in turn the two most famous American generals of modern history, MacArthur and Eisenhower.

Since General Gruenther is to remain as chief of staff, and the redoubtable Field Marshal Montgomery is also there to lean on, the new European supreme commander falls heir to a command-in-being that should make his task all the easier. The western alliance is a going concern, not yet at its peak but with most of its growing pains overcome. Assignment of another American general to this post also assures Europeans of continuing U.S.A. support, which undoubtedly is one of the factors that led to General Ridgway's appointment.

Mr. Bowman Vindicated

JUST when the Canadian livestock industry was beginning to hope for a clean bill of health soon for the Saskatchewan region infected with foot-and-mouth disease, two fresh outbreaks many miles apart have caused renewed disheartenment. There is little possibility now of resumption of exports to the United States before late summer, if then. Under the U.S. regulations a 60-day period must elapse from the time the Dominion certifies Canada infection-free before the U.S. will even consider, let alone approve lifting the embargo. Thus each new appearance of the disease prolongs the duration of the ban and aggravates the seriousness of it to Canada, for the embargo is Dominion-wide and not localized to Saskatchewan's infected region.

The new cases reported early this week near Weyburn are 28 miles beyond the quarantine area, but still inside the 50-mile buffer zone. Only slight encouragement may be drawn from that, however. Because the disease can lie dormant for a long time, and because months elapsed from its first appearance last autumn to its diagnosis in February, there is no way of knowing whether or not the belated precautionary restrictions have succeeded in containing the outbreak in southern Saskatchewan.

Investigation of the cases reported last week near Ormiston has demonstrated the extremely infectious nature of foot-and-mouth disease. These cases, occurring in April, have been traced by the authorities to uncooked scraps from a beef carcass which the farmer concerned purchased in January from the area later found to be infected. That experience underscores two important and disturbing facts: the ability of the virus to survive for long periods, and the ease with which the disease can be transmitted by uncooked meat as well as by live animals.

In the light of all that has transpired since February, it is plain that Agriculture Minister Bowman was not unnecessarily severe in setting up an immediate and total embargo at the British Columbia border, and in maintaining it despite threats and abuse from outside until he was satisfied that the federal authorities had themselves well enough organized to handle inspections and control measures.

BUTTLE LAKE

Sir,—The Buttle Lake issue is one that affects every citizen of British Columbia. It is not a local issue by any means.

I happen to be a conservationist, but I am not so obsessed by the idea and the ideal as to ignore the requirements of industry, especially when I am of the firm opinion that conservation and industry can go hand in hand and there can be a proper balance between them. The engineers who advise the B.C. Power Commission seem to be hypnotized with the procedure of obtaining power through hydro and they would appear entirely to ignore the possibility of obtaining power through steam, which, of course, would benefit the coal industry of Vancouver Island and elsewhere. It appears to me that the experts in the power commission are influenced greatly by the hydro projects in the United States, and wish to establish in British Columbia a series of minor Grand Coulee dams. They overlook entirely the alternative means of providing electrical power.

In my opinion what took place in the legislature on the motion of Mr. Ash, supported by Messrs. Welch and Whisker, failed entirely to supply what was promised by Premier Johnson, namely that there would be a full debate on the issue in the legislature. One does not have to be a socialist to agree with Mr. Harold Winch in the stand he took on this particular question, and Mr. Anscomb took substantially the same position. The legislature did not deal with the issue on its merits—it had no information before it and therefore allowed itself (with the exception of those members who opposed the motion) to be a rubber stamp for a civil servant, namely the comptroller of water rights, who had been put in a most undesirable position by his superiors.

I had hoped that this matter would not become a political issue, but it will become a political issue if the Liberal government in power, without any legislature in existence, has the audacity to carry out the damming of Buttle Lake on a snap vote of the legislature which took place in the dying hours of its existence. The government has no valid mandate whatsoever to proceed with the damming of the lake. It is a matter that should be discussed on the hustings and no doubt will be, but it is really a matter for the next legislature to decide the issue between the brains-trusters of the power commission and the people. As for the people, they include conservationists as such, but they also include the hotel and resort people and the coal miners of Vancouver Island. It would be a dastardly act for the present government to give the "green light" to the power commission to carry out the devastation of Strathcona Park in the manner proposed by the power commission.

TOURIST TRADE

Sir,—I see the 1950 tourist spending figures show that Canadians spent $9,000,000 more outside of Canada than tourists to Canada spent here last year.

This deficit will be larger for this year unless our manufacturers and dealers do something to get prices down. Not only are Canadians buying plenty abroad, but also American tourists are finding our prices too high, especially now that our dollar is equal or better than theirs.

Canadians can't bring in any article worth more than $100 from the United States. I can visualize Canadians bringing in major appliances, etc., if the amount allowed were larger, or man and wife could merge their amounts allowed every four months.

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHAT'S in a name? asked a certain Elizabethan fond of writing his own surname according to his spelling mood. A great deal, says I, or someone else might be blamed for what comes after this column's by-line, and that would never do.

But just for a moment one of my readers made me doubt myself. Thanking me for putting in a good word for St. George he referred to "the Scot with an English name" (meaning me). That sent me running for reassurance to my clan book, wherein I saw again that Taylor is a sept name of the Clan Cameron.

Not that I mind a bit if, English version, it's really one of those trade names like John the baker, later metamorphized into John Baker. Initially perhaps there was an Archibald the tailor whose son became Archibald Taylor. And, alas, was Peeping Tom of Coventry fame not also a tailor? Incidentally, however, it's rather disconcerting to have Mario Pei in "The Story of Language" refer to names like Baker, Smith, Collier, Taylor, Butler, etc., as "petrified trade-names." Not a very nice-sounding adjective at all.

I also looked up my family Bible, although it didn't help me a great deal. It told me there were Taylors running loose in the particular town of my native heath as far back as 200 years ago, but that's all. For all I know their ancestor may have slipped over the border one dark night because his English customers wouldn't pay their sewing bills. Anyway, this is only one half of me. The other is such a mixture of Campbells, Monteiths, Grahams and Stewarts I wouldn't dare probe too deeply for fear of what I might find, except, however, that I doubt any of them were tailors.

And I suppose if I went too far back I'd find they didn't have names of their own at all. Family names, I learn from Mr. Pei's fascinating volume, are much newer than the single clan or tribal names which held sway for a long time, with the odd nickname to distinguish the odd individual. (The Roman name Cicero, by the way, stemmed from a wart on the nose.) Before that—I'm guessing now—maybe people went by numbers, which would be frightfully confusing especially since I don't suppose most of the holders thereof would be able to count.

I noticed an article in the Colonist the other day about an archaeological discovery, some ancient step pyramid in Egypt 6,000 years old, much older than the Gizeh pyramid built by 100,000 laborers. Fancy this loin-clothed or skirted army being paraded for roll call if they had neither names nor numbers!

Just in passing, I mention it only because it caught my eye, a name that evolved out of Kentucky was Tootall; its possessor was six and a half feet high. But supposing he had a son five-foot-six!

But then names are no respectors of persons, or perhaps it would be more correct to say parents are no respectors of children. Else how would any girl be miscalled Frigidaire, as many in the Amazon valley were two decades ago?

In a chapter on what he calls "the language of politeness" Mr. Pei mentions the use of Mistress or Miss, about which I would like to add a word. In Shakespeare's day Mistress was applied to both married and unmarried ladies. By the time of Charles I the abbreviation Miss was used to denote single ladies who were not—er—ladies, although later on, as now, it meant simply unmarried women. It is when neither Mistress (Mrs.) or Miss is used that I am apt to be floored.

Occasionally some lady who honors me by writing merely appends her signature, with no hint as to Miss or Mistress, and then I get into rather a stew, not knowing how to address her in reply. I would not for the life of me depart from Mr. Pei's "language of politeness," yet you see how easily I could put my foot in it even if it's a pen I'm using. Ah well, what's in a name, as my friend said at the beginning of this discussion, although as I have suggested Mistress or Miss can be quite as intriguing as Taylor, whether the latter be of the clan of St. George or St. Andrew.

France Lures Out Hidden Gold

By STEPHEN COULTER, from Paris

AT THE cash desk of a Paris bank I watched a curious deal.

A man in a country suit with a beret and yellow shoes put a rag bundle on the counter, opened it, and started counting out gold.

I don't know how many gold coins were there. Probably several dozen. The cashier hardly bothered to look up until the man finished counting and shoved the gold forward. Then he consulted a paper, made a rapid calculation, and said: "That makes 200,000 francs" (about $560).

A few minutes later it was all over. The man in the beret handed over his gold. The cashier paid out wads of notes. Out walked the man. The cashier turned to other business.

No questions were asked. The bank didn't want to know the name of the customer, his address, where he got the gold. Above the grille was a white sign: "Gold transactions. Absolute anonymity guaranteed. Purchases or sales."

This sort of thing is going on in France daily. Any morning you may walk into the same bank, push across $19,600 to the cashier and say: "One gold brick, please." You may take your gold brick and lock it in the bank vaults. Nobody will ask your name, or anything else.

You may even take your gold brick to the state mint on the Seine quayside and have your own gold coins struck with it. All perfectly legal, and the operation isn't so pointless as it sounds, because gold coins, easily portable, easily hidden, are worth relatively more in ready cash than gold bricks.

The French government has cottoned on to this, and has been melting down gold from official stocks and carefully selling it in the form of "Napoleons"—with a suitable date on them.

No doubt all this juggling in gold strikes the visitor as a very queer state of affairs indeed. There are Frenchmen who think so themselves. Yet, if France's new prime minister, Antoine Pinay, could manage to entice more men like the man in the beret into the banks, half France's money troubles would be over at once.

Hoarded in France, mostly by farmers and the country population, are some 1,700 tons of gold worth more than $3,000,000,000. It is stored in old washtubs, wool stockings, mattresses, and under the eaves of barns all over the country by people whose faith in their national currency has been diminishing steadily for the last 38 years—since August, 1914.

Stocks of gold are not the only "secret fortunes" tucked away by worried Frenchmen. It is estimated that another $11,200,000,000, in stocks, shares, foreign currencies and other capital is carefully hidden abroad, and that more is trickling away all the time through various frauds.

A French importer of wine from Lisbon obtains the exchange control permit to settle the cost, but the payment authorized is more than the goods have cost. The French dealer changes the surplus into hard-currency Portuguese escudos and locks it away in a Lisbon bank.

Again, a French maker of, say, refrigerators, is producing from an American patent under contract to pay 6% to the U.S. patent owner, but to the French exchange control he shows a bogus contract saying that he must pay 10%.

He is authorized to send the dollars to America. The difference of 4% he locks away in a United States bank as an illegal dollar reserve against a rainy day.

The ministry of finance in Paris says that great sums are held in Canadian, United States and South American banks by Frenchmen who feel their capital insecure at home. In Swiss banks alone, the ministry calculates, are deposited some $2,800,000,000 of French capital which the owners refuse to bring into France.

No sooner does a dollar bill pass out of a tourist's wallet in France than it disappears into the mysterious "hidden fortune" circuit. There are plenty of dollar bills hidden away with the gold in the washtubs of France. The minister of finance believes there is not less than $2,800,000,000 worth of hoarded foreign currency in France, two-thirds of it in dollars.

All this makes a secret nest-egg of some $16,800,000,000.

And mild, cautious Premier Pinay is going to try to coax the men in the berets to bring it into the open.

Happy Horrors for Tourists

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THAT WAS a dirty trick in British Columbia when certain anti-prosperity elements, probably fellow travelers, contended that the killing of a 14-ton elephant seal would end the fable of cadborosaurus, the alleged sea serpent which draws tourists from far and near to crowd the rails of coastal ships in summer weather.

The counter-revolutionary forces now are in full cry and from Victoria came the repeated shouts of outraged British Columbians (and none cry louder about their natural assets) who say that "Caddy" is alive and well and thoroughly enjoying spring in the warm waters near that tourist haven. Some faithful son of the coast province, in the nick of time, reported seeing the sea serpent gamboling in the water. "I had the impression of seeing daylight under the curves of his body," said this witness.

Down here, where the only "Caddy" of interest is the mayor's car, we have to try to get along without sea serpents, and the Gatineau lakes have utterly failed to produce any attraction comparable to the Loch Ness monster, out of which the Scottish hotel keepers have done very well. We could be accused of being backward, and yet in daring to look at the chamber of horrors the universe offers we seem to have done rather better with flying saucers than the British Columbians. We at least admit they could exist. We cannot at the moment think that many tourists would be attracted by rumors of little men from another planet scampering through the bush of King Mountain, their flippers and antennae waving.

Yet, on second thought, it might be the very thing, a far better attraction than the mounted policeman on a horse on Parliament Hill. The charm of such attractions is that there does not have to be proof. If the little men from another planet are to be our reply to "Caddy" we must be prepared to defend them and scream as loudly as the British Columbians when anyone argues they were only bush coyotes in a hurry.

Doing 95 Miles an Hour

(From The Peterborough Examiner)

THE RENFREW man was "as mad as blazes" because, doing 95 miles an hour along a Peterborough highway, he could get no higher speed out of his car, and could not pull away from the provincial police cruiser chasing him.

The interesting part of this story is not that the speeder was fined $50 and costs in magistrate's court; or even that his modern car would not exceed 95 m.p.h. What fascinates us is that—at that speed—provincial police in their modest-looking standard-sized cars were able to overtake the Renfrew fellow.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Several prominent Americans have said they are not interested in the vice-presidency. And that, we guess, is the American spirit—never to stop at the $32 question.

"Oh, no," said his wife. "But according to that height-weight table on the scales I should be about six inches taller."

A coffee salesman, in a small town hotel lobby, chatted with a lazy-looking man idling in another chair.

"Ever drink coffee?" he asked, with an eye to starting up interest in his line.

The man admitted he drank lots of coffee. Fifty cups a day.

"Fifty cups a day! Doesn't it keep you awake?" inquired the salesman.

"Well, it helps!" answered the man.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

WITH drug manufacturers in Canada and the States racking their brains for new ways of dishing up chlorophyll, this may shortly be a smell-less world.

Besides the pills that purify the breath and kill body odors at their source; besides the tooth pastes and chewing gums; besides the bottles with wicks that cleanse a room of the stench of cigars or cooked cabbage, there are said to be dog foods that you can feed a hound to render him sweet and neutral. And the latest bulletin from the chlorophyll front says a cigarette has been invented which kills its own odor.

This is all very well, so long as chlorophyll remains in the realm of personal choice. But the danger inherent in scientific discoveries of this sort is that it places in man's hands a weapon far too big for him. Let us suppose that a majority were to arise in this country who did not like smells. Here at their disposal lies ready the means of destroying some of the most gratifying aromas, effluvia and bouquets known to the minority. Laws could be included in the present public health regulations calling for the injection of chlorophyll into Oka and Limburger cheese, into garlic, onions, turnips, cabbages, kippered herrings, asparagus, and an unpredictable list of other dainties which are dear to the noses and palates of the minority.

While few of us would like to have our sense of smell tampered with or inhibited, since freedom of smell ranks with freedom of speech—what we might call the fifth freedom—none the less there is no doubt whatever that the great majority of us have very definite ideas on what is good to smell and what is not. That is why a scientific discovery like chlorophyll places in the hands of that majority a dangerous power.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—Victoria will light a signal fire on Beacon Hill at 9 o'clock tonight in memory of the arrival of Capt. Vancouver, who anchored within range of the cliffs at dusk on April 30, 1792.

50 YEARS AGO—Lovers of good old English mahogany had a field day yesterday when the fine collection of furniture imported by the late Sir James Douglas was put up for auction by Mr. Joshua Davies.

85 YEARS AGO—The postal law lately passed requires that every letter brought into or sent out of the colony shall be subject to a colonial rate of 5 cents.

Active Stocks Market Guide

Active industrials were without exception lower on Montreal, Toronto and New York exchanges yesterday, but the volume of business was below normal, and there was no rush to sell.

Toronto mines and oils were mixed although even here minus signs predominated.

Johnson Promises Study Of Small Loggers' Space

PORT ALBERNI, April 29. — Premier Byron Johnson partially answered one of the crucial questions confronting this lumbering area, but did not refer to another major Alberni riding issue, in an address to a predominantly Liberal audience of more than 200 persons here tonight.

On the controversial question of providing suitable working space for the district's small loggers, he promised swift action in the event of a Liberal return to power, on the party's convention resolve to set up a legislative committee to study and bring in recommendations concerning the plight of small scale operators under forest management license plans.

This would be done, said Premier Johnson, at a fall session he hoped to call this fall.

He made no reference to the recent announcement of Public Works Minister E. T. Kenney that a reconnaisance survey of the proposed Alberni-Tofino road would be carried out immediately.

The balance of the premier's speech dealt with the progress achieved by British Columbia in recent years and in this regard told his audience the most important point in the Liberal manifesto was the first plank, that calling for the return of a government pledged to economic stability.

In reply to a question, the only one put to him at the completion of his speech, he expressed regret that the separate school issue was being injected into the current campaign. "Things like that should not be threshed out in an election campaign," said the premier.

Earlier in the day he addressed a meeting of the Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce, spending the rest of his visit discussing the local campaign with Liberal officials here.

Great Strides Taken in Prisoner Rehabilitation, Says Speaker

With one eye cocked out the window on the floodlit Athletic Park diamond, J. Alex Edmison, Q.C., ardent baseball fan and penal reform authority, last night assured Victoria's John Howard Society that great strides are being made in rehabilitation of prisoners.

He warned society members before he started his talk in Spencerhouse, Cook Street, that he loves baseball, and had missed the opening game in Toronto for the first time in years.

"If anything special happens over there (Athletic Park), I will let you know. I think the score is now about 2-0, but the home team's pitcher hasn't hit his stride yet, because he doesn't know the park," Mr. Edmison narrated.

Mr. Edmison traced progress in penal institution reform since an 1849 royal commission investigation of conditions in Kingston, Ont., penitentiary, to the present.

A century ago, the commission found that children, both boys and girls, were given lashes and penitentiary terms for the most trifling offenses, he said.

It was not until as late as 1946 that federal authorities realized that cruelty did not pay off in a reduction of crime, and began a program of reformation of prison inmates, he said.

Mr. Edmison supported his conviction that "no man is beyond help" with case histories of hardened Kingston penitentiary inmates.

One had 28 convictions, and was considered hopeless, but because of an interest taken in him by a prison official, is now foreman in a Toronto plumbing firm, he said.

Another went into the penitentiary "an illiterate thug," but due to a program of guidance, became interested in literature and the arts, and will return to the outside "a polished gentleman."

Mr. Edmison, who is assistant principal at Queens University and chief adviser to the John Howard Society, said he would like to see several other federal penitentiary reforms.

He advocates more privileges for inmates serving the last part of their terms, with an opportunity for them to become "acclimatized" to the life of the outside world.

Bill of Rights Major Plank, Says Snowsell

A provincial bill of rights is the most important plank in the C.C.F. election platform, Frank Snowsell, C.C.F. candidate for Saanich in the provincial election, told a public meeting last night.

Mr. Snowsell said every British Columbian should be free to take an active part in politics. Mr. Snowsell, a Mount View High School teacher, said his position was protected by the B.C. Teachers' Federation, but that many others were not so fortunate.

"It's a disgusting thing that a large perceptage of our people can't participate in politics for fear of persecution or retaliation by their employers," he said.

Government employees are particularly vulnerable to this kind of pressure, he said. But in Saskatchewan, which has a C.C.F.-introduced bill of rights, civil servants can take a political stand "even against the government."

"Why should a man sign away his rights as a democratic citizen, just because he goes to work for the government," he asked.

Dr. J. M. Thomas spoke in support of Mr. Snowsell.

Central Saanich Will Accept Subdivision Approval Ruling

Central Saanich will accept a ruling of the provincial land registrar in Victoria that a subdivision approved by Saanich municipality before secession does not need approval of the new municipality.

The ruling was handed down recently on property at Mount Newton Cross Road, following application by A. L. Noakes for the subdivision.

Reeve Sidney Pickles said the ruling was a "miscarriage of justice." The municipality had no right to be deprived of its privileges regarding the property and an extension of Mount Newton Cross Road, he said.

Reason for not appealing the case was said by council to be the cost.

IN the 1952 Mobilgas Economy Run, Studebaker successfully defended its reputation for stand-out gasoline mileage over a tortuous 1415-mile course from Los Angeles, via Mojave Desert, Grand Canyon and Salt Lake City to Sun Valley, Idaho, at speeds averaging more than 40 miles per hour. The Studebakers, piloted by experienced drivers under American Automobile Association Contest Board rules, made operating economy history. Each Studebaker had overdrive, optional at extra cost—and used regular, not premium, gas. See and drive a thrifty Studebaker at your nearby dealer's.

Exchange Stands Pat on $1.90 Offer

BY BILL MAVOR

Victoria Builders' Exchange will stand by its offer of $1.90 an hour to carpenters.

The exchange yesterday passed a resolution that the firms affected by the report unanimously reject the conciliation board majority report "but endorse the recommendations contained in the minority report."

The majority recommendation was for $2.10 an hour, an increase of 35 cents.

Eighteen firms, employing about 450 carpenters, are affected by the decision.

"The men want the pay increase for the $1.90, the sooner they'll start receiving it," said exchange president J. A. Pollard. He said the pay increase would not be retroactive.

Local 1598 of the Carpenters' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) meet next [illegible] to vote on the majority report. About 600 men are in the union. The settlement with the exchange generally sets the wage pattern for all Victoria carpenters.

The Labor Relations Board may be called in today in negotiations between the Coast lumber operators and International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

Talks between the two parties have indicated little progress and are now in their ninth day.

Woodworkers seek a 35-cent-an-hour wage increase. Operators have suggested a 10-per-cent wage cut for some classifications and no increase in logging operations.

Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada of the Victoria local council will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the lower board room of the Naval Veterans' Branch, Canadian Legion.

Arthur Drew, chairman for seven years of sub-local 189, Bakery Salesmen (T.L.C.), recently was presented with a gold service badge by the Teamsters' Union as a token for services rendered. Mr. Drew is now employed at the Veterans' Hospital.

Automotive Workers' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) will apply for a conciliation board in negotiations with Whitaker and Revercomb Ltd., union spokesman George Reside said yesterday.

Wage increases of about $35 a month are sought for machinists and partsmen.

LONDON, April 29 (Reuters).—The R.A.F. announced Sunday night it will give all officers and men improved training in ground fighting so that they can defend their own bases and installations.

Up till now, the R.A.F. has had its own regiment to do this work, with air crews and maintenance men having only basic training in ground combat duties.

Pre-Game Ceremonies Open Baseball Season

Feature attraction of pre-game ceremonies which launched 1952 W.I.L. baseball campaign in Victoria was parade through downtown streets. Clown "Tippy" stops to reassure Ernie Bennett, who was so scared he was unable to give his age or address to Colonist photographer Jim Ryan.

Chief Thunderbird of Saanich Indians was prominent in ceremonies which made manager Cece Garriott of Tyees "Chief Big Shot." Here, Thunderbird steals camera spotlight as he poses with drummers Donna Brown (left) and Pam Rossiter of Victoria Girls' Drill Team.

Lewiston	4	5	.571	2
Salem	3	5	.375	3½
Yakima	3	5	.375	3½
Wenatchee	2	6	.250	4½

Only the fact that Victoria's league-leading Tyees won made it worthwhile for the hardy Victorians who turned out at Royal Athletic Park last night to watch the W.I.L. opener here.

Opening-night conditions were probably the worst in seven years. It was cold, it was windy and it was wet. Yet most of the crowd of nearly 3,000 stayed to the last out to see the Tyees eke out a 7-6 victory over the Wenatchee Chiefs.

The win was the third in a row for Cece Garriott's surprising crew and their sixth in seven decisions. It left them in first place by a game and a half over Vancouver Capilanos.

GOOD BASEBALL

Considering the conditions, the game produced good baseball. The Tyees failed to show the attack which they displayed in the first week of the season and Ben Lorino was not at his best on the mound but they did manage to come up with the big inning which has been the feature of their play to date.

It wasn't exactly much of an inning but it did produce five runs, mainly on the strength of some daring base-running which capitalized to the fullest on two scratch hits and three short singles and two bases on balls.

Held hitless by Bud Bauhofer, promising 20-year-old rookie righthander, for three innings, the Tyees broke through in the fourth. It started when Garriott opened by drawing a base on balls. Don Pries topped a ball down the third-base line and beat it out for Victoria's first hit. Then Chuck Abernathy beat out a bunt to load the bags.

KEPT RUNNING

Garriott scored after the catch on Granny Gladstone's short fly and the Tyees never stopped running. Pries was picked off second and caught in a rundown between second and third with Abernathy moving to second on the play. John Treece then walked. Milt Martin dropped a hit in front of the centre-fielder, scoring Abernathy and moving Treece to third, and went to second on the play to the plate. Lorino blooped a hit behind third and went to second as Martin thundered across the plate behind Treece to the surprise of everyone, particularly the Chiefs. Luther Branham got a ground hit into left field and Lorino chugged in all the way from second for the fifth run.

Bauhofer's bad throw to second base on an attempted force out gave the Tyees their last runs—both unearned—in the sixth.

They were needed with Lorino keeping himself in trouble with bases on balls. Manager Dick Adams doubled behind two walks to give the Chiefs a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Adams doubled in the sixth and went to third as Walt Pocekay's wind-blown fly fell for a double in right field. Elwin Elton plated both with a blooper single and then doubled in two more runs in the eighth. The Chiefs left the tying and winning runs on in the ninth with Gladstone clutching Bud Hjelmaa's high pop for the final out.

Lorino wound up with nine strikeouts and was charged with seven bases on balls. He didn't allow a hit from the first through the fifth, struck out the side in the seventh after his shaky sixth inning and just got by in the last two innings.

ERRORLESS BALL

The Tyees played errorless baseball with Lorino proving a defensive wizard. The Chiefs tried to bunt on him in the fifth after his base-running but he tossed two runners out at first with neat plays. He also made a good play on a topped ball in the sixth to force a runner at second. Left-fielder Elton and right-fielder Ross McCormack both came up with good catches for the Chiefs, robbing Abernathy and Treece, respectively.

On the hitting side, Pries picked up three singles in five trips and catcher Milt Martin had two in four tries to lead the Tyees. Adams, with two of Wenatchee's five doubles, and Elton with his single and double, did most of the damage for the losers.

Second game of the series is billed tonight with rookie Bill Wisneski out for his third win for Victoria. Don Tierney is the probable mound choice for the Washingtonians.

Spokane Indians failed to keep pace with the Tyees as they folded to Tri-City Braves, 11-5. The loss dropped them into a second-place tie with Vancouver Capilanos, whose game with Yakima was rained out.

Five pitchers issued a total of 28 bases on balls as Tri-City made six hits good for 11 runs. A crowd of 3,268 witnessed the game.

In the other contest Lewiston Bronco edged Salem, 11-8, in 12 innings. The Bronco sent Sal de George, who failed to come to Victoria in a trade, to the showers in the first with a five-run inning.

One of the more difficult feats any skaters can do will be tried in Victoria in the near future.

Last night about 80 members of the Victoria Skating Club determined to raise some $125,000 to build their own ice arena.

A committee will be appointed immediately to canvass the 740 members of the club for pledges, plus reaction to sale of debentures.

The club executive, under president Ross Hocking, told the meeting that a fee of $100 should be charged for life membership in the club, and sale of debentures should be undertaken after membership canvass.

President Hocking said, "There are no sugar daddies around to build this arena for us. Membership fees and debentures are the only way."

NOT SATISFACTORY

Memorial Arena arrangements "are not satisfactory to the Victoria Skating Club," he said. "If we don't build our own arena, we face another season, at least, with no asurance of improvement."

Estimates for the new arena include $35,000 for the ice, which would measure 176 feet by 76; $57,000 for the building; and $34,000 for the lounge, furnace rooms, etc.

Victoria Curling Club, which is planning to begin construction of a curling rink in June, has offered to share costs with the skating club.

Max Zabel, president of the curling club, told the meeting that part of the land the curling club is building on could be used as the site of the skating arena.

JOINT CONSTRUCTION

He also offered the skaters use of one wall of the curling rink, as a joint part of construction of the two buildings; a share-basis for ice machinery, or use of the curling rink ice for a limited time if the skaters do not go ahead with their building.

But skaters must decide soon if they are to take advantage of the curlers' offer, because building of the curling rink is scheduled for June.

Construction for one wall would have to be altered from present plans, if it is to become a joint wall.

A saving could be effected by sharing ice-making machinery, curlers pointed out.

Two compressors are needed for each sheet of ice, one to make ice and one to "hold" it, but in the case of two adjoining buildings, only three compressors could be used. If buildings were not near each other, each would need two compressors.

ICE DIFFERENT

Curling ice and skating ice are of different hardness, making it impossible to use one sheet of ice for both.

No other good site has been found for a skating arena, according to Mr. Hocking. Oak Bay, for instance, does not permit construction of an arena.

Some rock may have to be removed from the Pembroke Street site, according to the skating club executive.

Hocking said, "We must have $75,000 in hand before we start." He warned members that sale of debentures of $100 value would place a heavy yearly burden of interest on the club.

SELL DEBENTURES

Members discussed at length the most suitable size debenture, and decided they should start at $100, at five per cent interest, and also include $1,000 debentures.

Entrance fees of $100 would be non-interest-bearing, would entitle the purchaser to special privileges, and could be bought on time. A single entrance fee of $100 would entitle all members of one family to share privileges.

Labor organizations, service clubs and fraternal organizations will be asked to contribute to the cost of a skating arena, members decided.

Rickey Denies Pirates' Need Of $300,000

PITTSBURGH, April 29 (AP).—Reports that Branch Rickey has asked the three Pittsburgh Pirate owners for $300,000 to bolster the club's finances brought a strong denial from Rickey today.

Published reports had the Pirates' general manager planning to ask John Galbreath, Tom Johnson and Bing Crosby for $100,000 each in anticipation of another losing financial year.

Rickey said:

"This is the first I've heard of it. But if the club needed money—even a million dollars—that's something I wouldn't discuss with anyone."

One report said the reason for Rickey's need of money is his expensive build-up of a farm system and the 1951 signing of several hundred players. It is said Rickey spent in excess of $600,000 accomplishing this.

U.S. Aces Win At Wimbledon

BOURNEMOUTH, England, April 29 (AP).—Doris Hart and Shirley Fry, both of the United States, swept to second-round victories in the women's singles of the British hard courts lawn tennis championships today.

Top-seeded Miss Hart, Wimbledon champion, overwhelmed Britain's Mrs. M. S. Wavish, 6-0, 6-1, and Miss Fry, seeded second, turned back Mrs. Vera Thomas, Britain, 6-3, 6-3.

Britain's bespectacled ex-schoolteacher, Gerald Oakley, gave Australia's world champion Frank Sedgman a tussle before Sedgman took over to win, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1, in a third-round men's singles match.

Thomas Cup Nominations Total Nine; Close Today

Entries for the 1952 Sid Thomas Memorial Award will close tonight at midnight.

The list of nominations for the award rose to nine yesterday when two more names were submitted. The new nominees are Ed Kelter, chief supervisor of the Pro-Rec on Vancouver Island, and Bruce Humber, Canada's track and field coach for the coming Olympic Games in Helsinki. Humber won the award in 1950 when he was chosen Canadian British Empire Games coach.

William Moffat of No. 61, 2659 Douglas Street, nominated Humber while a letter from "Bill Duthie" submitted Kelter's name for consideration.

WELL SUPPORTED

Two more letters were received for Doug Fletcher while George Eade and Archie McKinnon were also nominated again.

T. Macdonald-Miller and C. W. Wilkinson both chose Fletcher as their choice while Anthony Simpson named Eade and Jim Cousins selected McKinnon.

Others up for consideration are Wallace Milligan, Wally Yeamans, Nick Lystar, and Dick Ellis.

The trophy winner will be selected by a panel of three judges, to be named later, from information supplied in the letters accompanying the nominations.

The winner will receive a wrist watch from the Colonist, and a replica, besides the huge bronze trophy.

Writer of the best letter will receive two season tickets to home games of Victoria Tyees. The winning letter does not necessarily have to nominate the ultimate winner.

Other former trophy winners were Peter Salmon, Eddie Haddad and Arnie Ferguson.

Favor Agitator In Rich Race At Newmarket

NEWMARKET, Cambridge, England, April 29 (CP).—The Two Thousand Guineas, first of Britain's flat-racing classics, will be run tomorrow over a straight mile at Newmarket, where King Charles II once raced.

Twenty-four top British colts, plus five French invaders, will probably contest an event that is considered strictly a two-horse race between J. A. Dewar's Agitator, an undefeated son of Nearco-Sedition, and Lord Rosebery's Bob Major.

The One Thousand Guineas, a one-mile event for three-year-old fillies, will be run Friday. Then will come the Derby and Oaks at Epsom late in May with the last of the classics, the Doncaster St. Leger, slated for September.

Agitator will be ridden by champion jockey Gordon Richards. The colt has plenty of early speed but may be tested by the uphill finish, which resulted in narrow defeats for Richards on the Cobbler in 1948 and on Abernant in 1949.

The French bid will be headed by Marcel Boussac's Argur, unplaced in his only race this season but now third choice in the betting behind Agitator and Bob Major.

Baker's Status Unchanged; Sons Sign Two

The status of Norm Baker, high-scoring star of Victoria Shamrocks of the Inter-City Lacrosse League, remained unchanged last night.

Baker denied a Nanaimo report that he had signed to play with Nanaimo Native Sons and reiterated that he would remain out of lacrosse this season if he is unable to settle his dispute with the Shamrocks. Baker skipped a practice recently and was fined by coach Arnie Ferguson. He has asked for a retraction of the fine before he will rejoin the club.

Curt Simmons made a smooth comeback to big league baseball yesterday by pitching Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-2 National League victory over Chicago Cubs.

The 22-year-old lefthander, who made his last previous start for the Phils September 9, 1950, showed much the same effectiveness that made him a 17-game winner in his shortened 1950 campaign. The former U.S. army sergeant held the up-and-coming Cubs to seven hits.

Simmons didn't seem as fast as before his army hitch, but his curve ball was masterful and his control was steady. He issued only one walk.

MAGLIE WINS THIRD

Sal Maglie pitched a three-hit game and then singled home the winning run in the ninth inning as New York Giants hung the season's third consecutive defeat on Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, 2-1. It was Maglie's third straight win.

It was a tough one for Blackwell to lose as he yielded only four hits.

Preacher Roe, Brooklyn, left-handed master, beat St. Louis Cardinals for the eighth straight time as the league-leading Dodgers scored a 4-1 victory in a game which began Tuesday night and ended at 1:30 a.m., E.D.T., Wednesday.

The start of the contest was delayed 65 minutes because electricians refused to cross picket lines thrown up around Sportsman's Park by members of another labor union.

INDIANS END SLUMP

The Cleveland Indians ended their batting slump with a rousing 21-9 win over the A's at Philadelphia, in the only American game to escape the weather.

Third baseman Al Rosen hit three home runs and batted in seven runs and rookie Jim Fridley had six hits in six times up as Bob Feller coasted to his second win of the year. Feller gave up 18 safeties, but never was in danger of losing after Cleveland piled up a 14-2 lead in the first four frames.

Last night's batting spree was in sharp contrast to the Indian's last four games in which they were shut out three times and held to one hit twice.

Home Plate Ritual Names Garriott 'Chief Big Shot'

Victoria Tyees are now led by an Indian chief. Manager Cece Garriott was made "Chief Big Shot of Vancouver Island" in a colorful and unusual pre-game ceremony at home plate last night and the name is doubly appropriate.

Big shot is the translation of the word Tyee, and with the Tyees riding along at the top of the W.I.L. standings, Garriot has a good claim to the name.

Percy Ross, chief of the Songhees Indians, officiated at the ceremony aided by Chief Thunderbird, well-known Indian wrestler of the Saanich Tribe, and Mike Underwood and Abraham Joe of the Cowichan Tribe.

This quartet also officiated in tossing out the first ball with Thunderbird fanning completely on a high, hard one, inside, delivered with good form by Ross. Underwood did the catching and Joe was the umpire.

Garriott was presented with a totem pole and each of the Tyees received a small totem pole, stopping in front of their manager and greeting him in accepted Indian fashion as they received their mementoes from Laurie Wallace, treasurer of the Victoria Baseball and Athletic Co. Ltd. and the Athletic Booster Club, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Players were introduced by their managers prior to the ceremony which made a chief out of Garriott.

DIAMOND DUST: The Chiefs didn't take kindly to the decisions of plate-umpire Russ Kimpel and base-umpire George Behringer. They protested often, particularly when Vic Solari was called out trying to steal second with what would have been the tying run in the sixth and when Kimpel called pinch-hitter Norm Ridgeway's drive down the third-base line foul in the seventh. Kimpel, umpiring his seventh season in pro ball and his first in the W.I.L., spent the past four seasons in the Western League . . . Behringer spent part of last season in the W.I.L., the previous two seasons in the Arizona-Texas League . . . More than 300 fans were seated an hour before game time and the crowd in view of conditions was amazing. With good weather, Victoria would undoubtedly have surpassed Spokane's opening crowd of 4,500, highest of this season . . . Gusts of wind several times almost carried the press box right off the grandstand roof and occupants didn't feel safe until Fred Barnes, Colonist managing editor, showed up. A father for the first time yesterday, he managed to stay until the last out . . . The game opened auspiciously with Chuck Abernathy making a good catch of a foul fly near the first-base stands . . . Chief Thunderbird's gravelly voice is probably the result of too many strangleholds in 18 years of big-time wrestling . . . Fans who clamored for the game to start before the chief-making ceremonies were over could stand a lesson in manners . . . Cal Mcirvin, the southpaw optioned to Victoria by Portland, reported yesterday afternoon. Catcher Lilio Marcucci is expected today or tomorrow . . . Outfielder Ben Jeffey and pitcher John Tierney of last season's club are both reported in Korea with the U.S. armed forces . . . John Treece played for Ed Henry's Vancouver Arrows about seven years ago . . . Almost a dozen light bulbs broke with a bang as the wind blew in the rain and bleacher fans must have had an uncomfortable time with hot glass flying about . . . Charlie Strouiger, one-time V.M.D. shortstop, was noticed among the Up-Island fans who showed up . . . Judging from last night's display, the Tyees won't have any stop lights at third base. They just keep on coming and the Chiefs looked weak defensively several times in failing to cut down Garriott's speedsters.

Champs Get Ridd

TILLSONBURG, Ont., April 29 (CP). — Carl Ridd, who averaged 27 points a game with Winnipeg Varsity Grads this season, will join Tillsonburg Livingstons when they make their bid to be Canada's representative in the Olympic basketball games, coach Paul Thomas announced.

Ridd was selected to replace Tommy Gibbons, an American import who is ineligible for Olympic competition.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

With 14 ball clubs supposed to be chasing Cleveland and Brooklyn a good part of the 1952 season, a new argument has broken out.

It is this—which of the 16 franchises has been responsible for the most excitement and entertainment up to date? Baseball is supposed to be a game for national interest and fan enjoyment, plus profit for a number of owners—barring Tom Yawkey, who doesn't seem to bother about this detail.

The argument came to light in this dusty dome of thought after reading Frank Graham's new book, "The New York Giants." One of the best of all baseball stories, here is a graphic yarn of ups and downs, of deep excitement and melancholy days for a city of 8,000,000, well beyond a mere baseball zone.

It isn't only the story of a team working alone.

The Giants have had a dizzy career since Jim Mutrie managed them 67 years ago.

They have had their McGraw, their Mathewson, their Bresnahan, on through McGinnity, Doyle, Frisch, Bancroft, Terry, Jackson, Groh, Youngs, Fletcher, Nehf, as well as many far below these stars in ability.

How would their record compare in the way of fanatical entertainment with those of the Cubs, Yankees, Cardinals, Athletics, and others from the 16 teams who pry open each spring?

For one example no team in baseball has had the uplifts and the dizzy dips of the Athletics. Under the long reign of Connie Mack they have won nine pennants and finished last 17 times.

To take a ball club from first place and land it in last place should come under the head of cruel and unusual punishment. This is what Connie did. There has never been a team that varied so greatly. For example, Cleveland has won only two pennants, but has finished last only once. The Indians have had many chances and in recent years have been on the upgrade.

I would say the Athletics and Phillies have supplied about as much woe and as little entertainment to thousands of fans through more years than have the other major-league clubs with the exception of the St. Louis Browns, who have suddenly come to life again.

Yankees, Giants and Dodgers

It might be stated here that the Cardinals for the last 25 or 26 years have given their fans as much entertainment as any other team, barring possibly one—the Yankees. The Cardinals have usually been up there, deep in the thick of the pennant race with their list of stars and their great runs for various flags. They have had Hornsby and Musial, Slaughter and Marion, the Deans and Medwick. The Cardinal roster includes Leo Durocher and many others who have represented the best in hustling baseball.

For 25 years at least the Cardinals have handed out more and greater thrills than the Giants or Dodgers. But no team has yet matched the Yankees, since a winner is the ideal goal of every fan's dream. In the last 31 years the Yankees have won 18 pennants and you have to go back to 1925 to find them as low as seventh place in the standings.

They have never been out of the first division since 1925 and have known only two tail-enders—1908 and 1912—in all their history. I recall some sad years after Clark Griffith almost won a pennant, years ago when the fading Frank Chance and Harry Wolverton were in charge.

The Dodgers have been only an exciting squad the last 10 or 12 years. Wait a minute—I'll change that. They have usually been an exciting squad, but often upside down.

The Cubs have had it over the White Sox up to recent years where owner Wrigley seems to be quite content with last place and a steady admission total for the N.L. entry.

The Yankees and Cardinals lead. They are well in front. But Frank Graham has shown the Giants have turned in their full share of drama or excitement from the reign of Jim Mutrie up through 1951.

May Turn Pro

JEAN BELIVEAU

Big, high-scoring centre who led Quebec Aces to Alexander Trophy, Beliveau may be in Montreal Canadiens' uniform next year. Having turned down offer to turn pro last year "for personal reasons," Beliveau said last night that the same reasons "might not apply" when Canadiens make expected new offer again this year. Beliveau led Quebec Senior Hockey League in scoring with 45 goals and 38 assists, was selected league's all-star centre, best rookie and best professional prospect.

Coleman Joins Marines, Leaves Stengel Problem

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Gerry Coleman plays his last games for New York Yankees tomorrow. Dr. Bobby Brown awaits the result of today's army physical. So Professor Stengel is polishing up his old infield juggling routine.

Chances are old Casey will have more combinations revolving around shortstop Phil Rizzuto than a man trying to hook up a winning daily double ticket.

Here's a run down on the nine-man field:

1. Phil Rizzuto, the shortstop.
2. Johnny Mize, first base until Joe Collins is ready.
3. Joe Collins, first base when sprained ankle is okay.
4. Johnny Hopp, first base when Mize is tired and Collins isn't hitting.
5. Gil McDougald, second base—except when he plays third.
6. Bobby Brown, third base against righthanders until the bugles call.
7. Rookie Andy Carey, third base against lefties if he hits.
8. Billy Martin, second base when the broken foot is sound.
9. Jim Bridgeweser, shortstop if Rizzuto is hurt.

There are other combinations, too. Martin also plays short and third. Stengel worked Bridgeweser at second in the south. Hopp plays the outfield. So does Collins. McDougald has played third base every game so far.

NO EASY JOB

Replacing Coleman is no easy job for Stengel. He knew it was coming ever since Gerry and Ted Williams passed their Marine physicals early this month. But he didn't know Coleman would be leading the league at .394 or helping the Yanks rack up 21 double plays in nine games.

Brown also will leave a gap. Although he reported late from internship at Southern Pacific Hospital in San Francisco, and has done nothing but pinch hit this year, he was a consistent hitter and a five-year regular at third base against righthanded

Golf— Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

Here's a golf swinger I like. He's got what you should have. Throughout the swing you must keep your eye on the ball for it is the target at which the club must arrive in the downswing. By keeping your eye on the ball you are far less likely to sway the head either in the vertical, or horizontal plane. And it follows, that your shoulder pivot must be in a somewhat vertical plane, too, to make it possible to see the ball over your left shoulder when you are at the top of the swing. And so this rule of keeping your eye on the ball serves the purpose of virtually forcing the shoulder pivot to be in what approaches a vertical plane. In the backswing, the left shoulder rotates under the chin as the right shoulder rises. The shoulder pivot should be decidedly more vertical than the plane of the hip pivot. Notice how the left heel rises as the left knee moves inward. This rising of the left heel keeps the knees at the same horizontal plane preventing shot spoiling left side sag.

Cougars Pace P.C.H.L. In Total Attendance

Pacific Coast Hockey League playoffs attracted a total of 102,299 fans for 24 games, an average of 4,262 per game.

Although Edmonton Flyers averaged 6,304 fans for their two home playoff games, Victoria Cougars drew 30,086 for six home playoff games to top the circuit in total attendance for the season. The playoff attendance boosted the Cougar total for the year to 182,664, 4,161 fans more than the Flyers drew in four less games.

With seven home games in the playoffs, Saskatoon Quakers drew the largest post-season attendance, 32,924, but trailed the 5,014 for Cougars against 4,703 Cougars in average per game. The Saskatoon playoff total was more than one-quarter of the total that attended 35 Quaker league games.

New Westminster Royals averaged 4,402 fans for four home playoff games, Tacoma Rockets 2,277 for three games and Seattle Ironmen 1,721 for two games.

Average attendance for the season, including playoff games, follows: Edmonton, 4,824; Victoria, 4,455; Calgary, 4,408; Vancouver, 3,633; Saskatoon, 3,486; New Westminster, 3,394; Seattle, 2,431, and Tacoma, 2,184.

Ex-Hoop Stars On Probation

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Judge Saul Streit today dealt suspended sentences to three former University of Kentucky basketball stars for shaving points in a game.

The players, Olympians Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, and Dale Barnstable, members of the university's "fabulous five" of 1948, were placed on "indefinite probation."

They were given light sentences at the request of the district attorney's office. The district attorney had recommended clemency because "of substantial aid to our office."

City Magistrate Frees Youth of Driving Charge

A 20-year-old youth, whom police with drawn guns, arrested about 4 a.m., April 10, and who was charged with driving while his license was under legal suspension, was acquitted of the charge in city police court yesterday.

Magistrate H. C. Hall handed down the ruling after acting city prosecutor Gordon Poupore failed to prove that William L. Todd, 315 Beckley, was the driver of the car involved.

Const. John Birch told the court that in response to a radio call early in the morning he and Const. Bernard Potentier attended at an address on Denman Street, where a car passed them going in the opposite direction.

He admitted they lost sight of the car for a few seconds but later they came across a car with Todd sitting in it, apparently asleep, in the right hand seat.

When cross-questioned by James Proudfoot, counsel for the accused, Const. Potentier said he and Const. Birch had drawn their guns.

Const. Birch said that when Todd was searched at the police station, keys that fitted the car were found in his possession.

Todd testified that he had not been the driver of the car at any time during the evening.

He said his companion, Richard McBratney, brother of Lloyd McBratney, who was also in the car, was the driver. Richard was not in court and his brother said he had left town and was now in the R.C.A.F.

Lloyd McBratney, 978 Ambassador, said he didn't see his brother give the car keys to Todd and couldn't explain how he got them.

Magistrate Hall said, "In view of the evidence submitted, I must dismiss the charge."

A second charge against Todd of dangerous driving was also read to the court.

"In view of the ruling in the previous charge, I would ask that this be withdrawn," said Mr. Poupore.

More Than Half Going to Schools

More than half the mill rates in Saanich will go toward school costs, officials noted yesterday.

School District 61 will pay 27.30 of the total of 49.5 mills toward schools, while District 63 will have 32.95 of the total 55.15 mills for schools.

Land and improvements in each district will carry 20.4 mills and debt rate and roads will carry 1.80.

Last year's mill rates were 47.6 in District 61 and 46.15 in District 63.

The school tax rate in District 61 is estimated to yield approximately $338,000, and in District 63 about $61,000.

Slashing of estimates reduced the total mill rates from the estimated 51 mills for District 61 and 56.6 mills for District 63.

The figures were earlier reported to be last year's rates. The District 61 mill rate of 49.5 is an increase of 1.9 and the District 63 mill rate of 55.15 is an increase of nine mills.

Administrative, public works, salary and sewer by-law costs contributed to the mill rate increases, along with school and education costs.

Provincial government grants are estimated to include $298,000 from the 3-per-cent sales tax, $59,000 from the motor vehicle licenses, $89,500 from the social assistance allowances, and $2,000 for medical, dental and allied services.

Returns from the B.C. Telephone Co. and B.C. Electric Co. will total $14,971, based on 2 per cent of last year's revenue. The B.C. Electric franchise will return about $5,800, an estimated increase of $1,400.

Municipality Won't Guess Fine Revenue

Saanich municipality will continue the policy of not estimating police court fines to be collected in a year.

Council refused to make an estimate when figures were considered Monday evening. Fines collected in 1951 totaled $11,173.

Total of $6,992 in Grants Approved by Saanich Council

Grants totaling $5,912 to community service organizations have been authorized in 1952 by Saanich council.

Largest was $3,000 for Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee. Saanich Recreational Council will receive $2,000.

Grant of $250 was authorized for Victoria Chamber of Commerce on a joint freight rate relationship brief with other Greater Victoria municipalities.

Five Boy Scout groups will share another $250.

Other grants are Craigflower Museum Fund, $100; Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee, $80; North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, $50; Poppy Day committee, $25; Saanich Chamber of Commerce, $12; Saanich Recreation Council, $2,000; Victoria Horticultural Society, $20; Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, $100; Red Cross Society, $25, and the Employees' Association, $100.

Charitable organizations receiving grants include Family and Children's Service, $780; Canadian National Institute for the Blind and The Salvation Army, each $150. These grants are separate from those to community service organizations.

Oak Bay Ready To Consider Street Tenders

Oak Bay council tonight will consider tenders for approximately $25,000 worth of paving and curb and sidewalk construction.

The bids will cover work to be done in the old exhibition grounds and other areas.

A new subdivision north of that area will have underground services installed this year, and paving, walks and curbs done next year, said A. S. C. Musgrave, municipal engineer.

Completion of that work next year will create a new street from Old Willows Road to Lansdowne Road, relieving pressure on Cadboro Bay Road.

Delivery of 4,000 feet of 20-inch water main pipe has been received by Oak Bay municipality, Mr. Musgrave said.

It will be installed along Lansdowne Road from Foul Bay Road to Weald Road, eventually hooking up as a new Greater Victoria water system inlet. The new inlet is planned from Smith's Hill reservoir by the water board, it was reported.

Inlet now is on two 12-inch pipes at Foul Bay and Leighton Roads.

Decline in Building Expected by Saanich

Saanich municipal officials expect a drop in building this year, according to estimates.

The number of building permits for 1952 is estimated at 600, a drop of 40 from those actually registered last year.

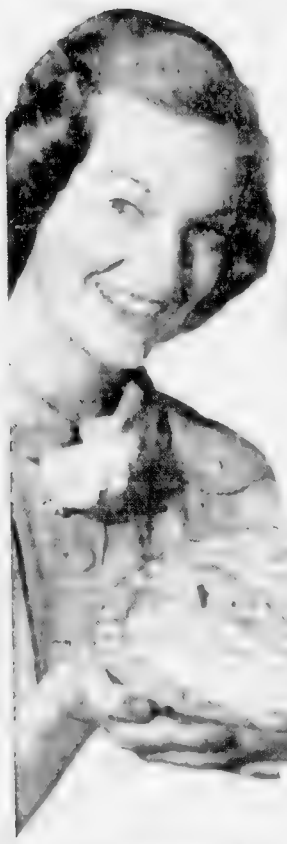
AFTERNOON NEWS



I'M SURE GLAD I CHANGED TO THE MODERN WAY OF BAKING WITH . . .

MONARCH

cake and pastry flour

my non-yeast baking turns out so much better when I use MONARCH CAKE AND PASTRY FLOUR . . . . I've found that's because MONARCH is milled from only the finest kinds of wheat and is sifted to special fineness—I hope every housewife learns this same lesson so she'll find all her baking turns out just simply grand!

IS THE HALF-INCH TERROR?

French Equatorial Africa's most dreaded creature is only a half-inch long. It is the honey ant. Hundreds of thousands of them, march in efficient and tireless military formation behind a wake of death. One scientist counting them found 200,000 soldiers in one line parading in companies abreast with officers running up and down the line keeping order. Equipped with razor-edged pincers these ants cut up and devour with amazing rapidity any fleshy creature which unfortunately happens to be in their way. Nothing in their path is safe. Even the mightiest elephant runs in terror upon sensing them approach. Let a horse or man break a leg and fall in the path of bashikowia ants and within a few hours only a skeleton is left. It was formerly a practice of punishment among certain African tribes to throw a bound prisoner onto the path of these ruthless marauders.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

ANOTHER RESCUE PARTY

The fun, excitement and adventure of Buster and his scouts, when they had sailed their two rafts back to the home shore, all seemed to melt away like snow in summer as they found that Uncle Wiggily was still mysteriously missing.

"Are you sure daddy didn't come home, Nurse Jane?" Buster asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Of course Uncle Wiggily didn't come home," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy as she tied a green ribbon on her tail. "I think I would know it if he had."

"But where is my daddy?" asked Buster. Once more there seemed to be tears coming into his eyes. "Did you know, Nurse Jane, that we found daddy's coat in the water of Mud Puddle Lake near the dangerous rocks? Did you know that?"

"No, Buster, I didn't. But if Uncle Wiggily's coat was in the water he must have wanted to wash it. If you have it now I will hang it out to dry," said Nurse Jane.

"The coat is dry now," said Captain Jackie. "We used it as a sail on my raft. Here's the coat, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy."

"Yes, it has dried nicely," said the muskrat lady. Then she began feeling in the different pockets.

"What are you looking for in the pockets of daddy's coat?" Buster asked.

"I was looking for a note or something written on a piece of paper," answered Nurse Jane. "Uncle Wiggily might have written a note saying where he was going and he might have left it in the pocket of his coat before he threw it into the water."

"I don't think my daddy threw his coat into the water," said Buster. Once more tears seemed ready to drop out of his eyes.

"Snap out of it, Buster boy," barked Jackie Bow Wow. "Your daddy is all right, I'm sure!"

"But where is he?" asked the rabbit scout. "Where is my daddy?"

"That's what we are going to find out!" said Nurse Jane in her funny, squeaky voice. "There is no note in the coat. So we will get up a rescue party. I'll call Chief the police dog. I'll call Uncle Pat Butter from his grocery. I may even call Mr. Whitewash the big, white bear, from where he is working in the toy shop of Santa Claus at the North Pole."

"It will take Mr. Whitewash a long time to get there to be in the rescue party to find daddy," said Buster, just a little sadly.

"Now snap out of it, Buster! Snap out of it!" barked Captain Jackie Bow Wow. "Mr. Whitewash can get here in a few hours, riding in his plane, if he has to. But maybe before then, we will find Uncle Wiggily."

"Here is the other umbrella, Jackie."

"I—I hope so," said Buster.

"Call Chief, the police dog, on the telephone, if you please, Nurse Jane," barked Jackie. "And also call Uncle Butter at his grocery store. We scouts will go get the two rafts ready to start the rescue party. I wish I had a better sail for my raft than Uncle Wiggily's coat."

"I can give you Uncle Wiggily's second best umbrella," said the muskrat lady. "Then you will have two rafts each with an umbrella sail. Go on, Scouts, get the rafts ready to sail! Here is the other umbrella, Jackie. Now I'll call Chief and Uncle Butter."

Buster and his scouts hurried to the shore of Mud Puddle Lake to get the rafts ready to sail. Nurse Jane began to telephone. Police dog Chief said he would be glad to start off with the rescue party.

"I'll be with you, Nurse Jane," as soon as I finish counting the holes in my slices of Swiss cheese," bleated Uncle Butter.

Without waiting for the grocery store goat, Buster and his scouts got the two rafts ready to start out again on the rescue trip to find Uncle Wiggily. Chief the police dog came to the shore where the two rafts were tied up. With him was Sergeant Bill.

"Well, let's go!" barked Chief when Uncle Butter finally arrived carrying two Swiss cheese holes. "On to rescue Uncle Wiggily!"

The two rafts were soon loaded. Captain Buster was on one with his crew and Captain Jackie on the other raft with his crew. The wind blew on the two umbrella sails. The rescue expendition was on its way.

And what happened next will be told in Monday's story if the sponge cake doesn't go swimming in the bathtub and get so wet it falls apart.

Naval Chief Ending Visit

The week-long visit of Vice Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of naval staff, is nearing a close. Yesterday morning he toured H.M.C.S. Naden, attended divisions and addressed the training establishment's company.

The chief of naval staff had lunch aboard the cruiser Ontario, and last night addressed a meeting of the United Services Institute.

This morning he will visit the seaward defense base, magazines and the destroyer H.M.C.S. Algonquin, now undergoing complete modernization at Yarrows Ltd. Tonight he will attend a dinner as guest of Rear Admiral W. B. Creery, flag officer, Pacific Coast, and officers of the command.

Motorcyclist Penalized $15

Donald G. Brown, 437 Constance, was fined $15 for driving a motorcycle with inadequate brakes when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday.

Accused was the driver of the vehicle involved in a collision with Janet Wright, 14, of 734 Wilson, on Esquimalt Road March 21.

The injured girl suffered skull and leg injuries in the mishap and is now out of danger, according to Royal Jubilee Hospital officials.

Help Sought in Finding Father

A New Jersey married woman who has written hundreds of letters in a search for the father she has not seen since she was six, appealed yesterday to The Daily Colonist to help in the hunt.

Mrs. Leon Lovett said her father's name was Fieldon William Summers, "usually called William or Bill Summers."

He is described as being 48 years old, about five feet five inches tall and weighing about 145 to 150 pounds, with blue eyes with a faint cast, light brown wavy hair, thinning; a cleft chin and good teeth. His nose looks as if it had been broken.

The writer said her father was a quiet man "with good character and habits," who had served in the U.S. Navy during the 1920's and did diner and restaurant work. [illegible] order cook in civilian life.

MAY HAVE CAFE

"He may own a small restaurant or diner at this time," the letter said.

Mrs. Lovett said her parents separated in 1932 when she was six, and that the father subsequently went to the western United States and was reported later to have come to Canada and remarried following the death of his first wife.

The New Jersey librarian said she wanted her two children—one of them a polio victim—to see their grandfather.

"If anyone can give me any information on this man," she asked, "please write Mrs. Leon Lovett, Librarian, Public Library, Beach Haven, New Jersey."

The suggested bidding:

1♠	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	All Pass

East will probably open the two of clubs, but if West has bid hearts and East opens that suit it should make the situation equally clear to him when he gets back in with the diamond ace. If North has the ace of spades in addition to the two heart tricks and other merchandise he is known to hold, there is no hope of defeating the game. Indeed, the only chance would appear to be to get four spade tricks in a hurry.

Since East cannot hope to get the lead again, when he shifts to spades he must lead the queen; then, no matter what North does he cannot avoid losing four spade tricks.

If North-South should reach five diamonds, that contract is set if the defenders lead two rounds of trumps to kill the threatened crossruff—a defense that should be obvious when they get in with the spade that North South must surrender before the crossruff can be launched.

East-West par: Defeat any game bid.

Bill Would Allow Taxing of Employers

CAPETOWN, April 29 (CP)—A new South African legislative bill would give wide powers to tax city employees who use native labor.
